

Injustice is intolerable.

North Carolina Theatre Arts Educators stands with communities of color as they fight for equality, equity, justice, and healing. We will work with theatre arts educators to train, support, and empower change. Theatre has long been both an art form and a tool for positive change, and we stand ready to take part.

NCTAE will work to encourage inclusion, diverse materials and perspectives, and the impact of artists of color.

We have created a living document with a collection of resources for educators to use while making positive change.

NCTAE is committed to encouraging ongoing education and growth for our members.
